The Tendency of Events in British America.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin.]

The inhabitants of British Columbia have set out on their journey towards annexation to the United States, but instead of coming by the direct route they prefer traveling by the roundabout way of the Dominion of Canada. Their course may not be a wise one, but it is intelligible. With that want of confidence in themselves and their opinions which proceeds from misfortune and pecuniary embarrassment this handful of colonists are afraid to ask the British Government to allow them to join themselves to the American Republic. They are however willing to relinquish their interests and destiny to the Legislature of the Dominion. They are willing to come over the line when others come; they are not willing to come first. Rather than come first they are willing, to risk starvation for ten years longer. English or than do that for which there is no English precedent they will forego all hope of commercial prosperity for the present.

The Dominion of Canada is therefore likely, in extent to realize the idea of its authors. The Atlantic maritime provinces though they shall not be connected are bound to the Confederation, possibly beyond the power of breaking. The Northwest territory is about to be annexed and it only requires the accession of British Columbia to stretch the boundaries of the territory of the newly founded nation from ocean to ocean.

When the Dominion has gained everything and completed the programme of its organization, it will be so much nearer its destruction. It will be composed of a number of small communities, separated from each other by long stretches of wilderness without identity of commercial interests—without even the sympathy that springs from intercommunication or knowledge of each other's wants. The United States can well afford to stand by and watch these changes, because they prepare the way for the future accomplishment of American ideas. The consolidation of the destinies of all the British settlements on this continent in one legislature, makes the work of Republicanizing and annexing them easy and simple. When these Provinces come to us, even in time of peace they will all come at once, and not as they would otherwise have done, singly or in batches of two or three. The only identity of interest the confederated colonies have is in the answer to the question whether they shall continue to live under the Royal Standard of England or hoist the Stars and Stripes. When the day for the settlement of that question has come and past, Canada will cease to trouble herself about the affairs of British Columbia and devote herself to the cultivating her commercial relations with the Middle States. The maritime provinces will ask us to their trade in fish and lumber with their old customers on our southern Atlantic seaboard. The Northwest Territory as the Hudson Bay country is called, will find its interests mixed up with those of Nebraska and Minnesota. Vancouver Island will resume its relations with San Francisco. Newfoundland will save no more what goose quill in British Columbia than the people of Texas did for what happens in Washington Territory. Each will interest themselves most in the affairs of the States and Territories that are contiguous, and with which they have ready communication. Washington will then be the common centre at which the representative of the Stickeen Territory and Prince Edward's Island can meet, and to do they will not have to pass through foreign territory as the Pacific members of the Legislature of the Dominion must in proceeding to their capital Ottawa.

At present the Canadians, using the term in its new and wider sense are so engaged in making professions of loyalty that they cannot give time to the study of their own interests, and perhaps their interests do incline toward Britain as long as the British Government will spend millions upon millions of dollars wrung from her struggling taxpayers at home in subsidizing this costly colonial toy. But the day will come when the golden cord which unites the old kingdom with the new Dominion will be cut never again to be renewed. When that day comes, and it is not distant, the death blow to Canadian loyalty will have been received, and it will not be many years, perhaps not many months before the Canadian section of the United states will be the most bitterly inimical to everything British of any in the Union. England is laying the foundation of this bad feeling by sapping the virtue out of the natural regard which the British settlers have for the mother country. England's lavish expenditure on Canada has induced a spirit of mendicancy, against the growing claims of which Englishmen of the middle and working classes must revolt sooner or later. Canada is and has been for years a professional beggar. The hatred arising out of the rebellion of 1837 has only been smothered by alms. The more is given the louder her shouts of loyalty may be now but the larger her demands will be in the future. When they become so large and so frequent that they cannot be satisfied, her curses will be deep in proportion as her blessings were cheap. Ah! but then the time when our Pacific seaboard will extend from California to Alaska will be at hand.

It is the custom in Mexico for the church to require a foreigner wishing to wed a native, to bring proof that he is not already a married man. An American about to marry a Senorita of very good family was required to furnish proof of his being a bachelor. Not finding any of his countrymen who knew him sufficiently well to testify to this fact he determined to supply the deficiency with the oath of a native. Meeting a Mexican in the street whom he had never seen before, our countryman proposed that he should swear to his being unmarried for the consideration of five dollars. The man after a moment's study told the stranger to get down on your hands and knees and creep about. Not exactly understanding what he was at our friend obeyed much to the detriment of his unmentionables. The other party then told him he was all right that he would swear he knew him since the time he crawled!

India rubber is a wonderfully elastic material, and can be stretched to an infinite variety of shapes and uses. It is singular that no enthusiast has attempted to make a collection of the various articles manufactured from this gum; they would stock a tolerably large cabinet. The latest adaptation of this accommodating substance is about to be made by a firm in Bridgeport Conn., who propose to build coaches and carriages with India rubber bodies. This is a capital idea, and might with still greater advantage be applied to city stages and horse cars. There would then, perhaps be really always room for one more.

DICKENS EARLY BIRD. Charles Dickens in Martin Chuzzlewit makes Mark Tapley say

I was born lucky. Sir, says Mark then if I was a painter and was called upon to paint the Lord knows what I should paint it as he might as near as I could suppose, said Martin. Aye but what could you do for me. I should want it drawn like a flat for a short sighted person, as Lantern for a dragging like a mag for a rapid swallow, and with variety in short to be made to suit the taste of every individual eye.

Removals from Office

The removal of Secretary Stanton by the President is clearly a violation of the Tenure of Office Law, which declares that the consent of the Senate is necessary to such removals An examination of the matter will be of interest at this time

The provision of the Constitution relating to the appointment of officers is in these words "He (the President) shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, Judges of the Supreme Court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for and which shall be established by law, but the Congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper, in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments"

Thus it will be seen that the President has power to nominate, but the concurrent power of the United States and the Senate is necessary for the appointment of the clerks of officers named But Congress has full power over the appointment of "inferior officers," and consequently over their removal; for, as Story lays down the doctrine in his Commentaries, which is founded on the decision of the Supreme Court in Marbury vs Madison, "as far as Congress constitutionally possesses the power to regulate and delegate the appointment of 'inferior officers,' so far may they prescribe the tenure of office, the manner in which, and the persons by whom the removal as well as the appointment to office shall be made." But who are the "inferior officers" in the sense contemplated by the Constitution? This does not appear to be clearly defined, but the term would probably include all the offices specifically mentioned in the provision of the Constitution which we have cited. To ascertain what is meant by "inferior officers," there would seem to be no other rule or standard of interpretation

"It is observable," says Story, "that the Constitution makes no mention of any power of removal by the Executive of any officers whatever.' Where, then, does the power of removal belong? "It is held in the Federalist (No 77) that 'the consent of the Senate would be necessary to displace as well as appoint. A change of the chief magistrate, therefore, would not occasion so violent or so general a revolution in the officers of the Government as might be expected, if he were the sole disposer of those offices" This doctrine was urged as an argument in favor of the adoption of the Constitution, and it had a most material influence to quiet the just alarms of an overwhelming influence and arbitrary exercise of this power by the Executive. The uniform argument at that time was that the power of removal did not belong to the President alone, but must be distributed "in conjunction with the Senate

But after the adoption of the Constitution, a different doctrine was started It was argued that the power of removal belonged to the President alone. The danger that he would abuse this power by removing good men from office it was said was wholly imaginary. It would be impossible that he should abuse the patronage of the Government, or his power of removal, to the base purpose of gratifying a party, or of ministering to his own resentments, or of displacing good officers for a mere difference of opinion Madison, who was a member of the House of Representatives when this subject was under discussion, emphatically declared that the President "would be impeachable for such an act of mal administration; for I contend," said he, "that wanton removal of meritorious officers would subject him to impeachment and removal from his own high trust" On this principle, even granting that the power of removal belongs to the Executive, what would become of Andrew Johnson's His "wanton removal of meritorious officers for the purpose of gratifying a party and ministering to his own resentments," would, on Madison's principles make it the duty of the House to impeach him before the Senate, even had he not clearly violated the law regulating the tenure of office

At that time, and on those principles, the House of Representatives, by fourteen majority, affirmed that the power of removal belonged to the President The doctrine was carried in the Senate by the casting vote of the Vice President This decision, says Story, "was greatly influenced by the exalted character of President Washington." There was no fear that he would abuse the power, or the result would have been different Indeed, during the whole of his Administration of eight years, only nine removals took place and these for obvious causes But this affirmation by Congress concludes nothing The matter has never been settled by a judicial decision One Congress may therefore take one view of the subject, and another Congress another The Commentator whom we have already several times quoted says, with regard to the doctrine of the Executive power of removal "Many of the most eminent statesmen of the country have expressed a deliberate opinion that it is utterly inadmissible, and that the only sound interpretation of the Constitution is that avowed upon its adoption; that is to say, that the power of removal belongs to the appointing power"—to the President and the Senate in conjunction The same writer more than hints that there has been "an aberration from the true constitutional exposition of the power of removal," and remarks that "it may be difficult to recall the practice to the correct theory." But he adds that 'it will be a consolation to true, who love the Union, and honor the patriotic discharge of duty, that in regard to inferior officers, the remedy for any permanent abuse is still within the power of Congress, by the simple expedient of requiring the consent of the Senate to removals in such cases"

On these principles the Tenure of Office Act finds its vindication The object of that Act was to prevent the abuse by the Executive of the power of removal It not only undertook to recall the practice to the correct theory the theory which was held upon the adoption of the Constitution—but also to provide a remedy in pursuance of a plain provision of the Constitution, for an abuse of power by the President in the removal of "inferior officers" From what has been advanced it will be seen that the law rests on no contemptible foundations, that the arguments which may be urged in favor of its constitutionality are neither few nor devoid of force that the question of its validity is by no means so uncertain as President Johnson and his supporters would make it. The law stands on a basis too solid to be overturned by Executive quibbling and partisan declamation It asserts the logical doctrine that the power of removal belongs to the appointing power and affirms a principle in regard to the appointment and removal of officers or officers which is unquestioned and unquestionable But whatever view the Supreme Court may take of the law, if that tribunal is ever called to pass upon it, a violation of it by the President when it is as clearly a law of the land as that by which the War Office itself was created is undoubtedly a misdemeanor, which calls for the application of the constitutional remedy On the principles avowed by Madison the mere removal of so meritorious an officer as Secretary Stanton would be an offence which would call for impeachment what then shall be said of Johnson's conduct when in addition to this offence, he has clearly and intentionally violated a law which his oath of office makes it his duty to observe"

A Democratic Estimate of Andrew Johnson

At this time when certain ones in the Democratic party are threatening to "fight" for Andrew Johnson, it will not be amiss to reproduce an article from the New York World confessedly the ablest and most influential Democratic journal in the United States, showing how the man whom they now support was regarded by them three years ago The paragraphs below are from the Weekly World of March 3 1865 It is proper to add that similar language was held toward Johnson by the entire Democratic press, both at that time and for almost a year afterwards, until he finally threw himself into the embraces of their party "What a front of brass and triple impudence" must they have to laud him now for wisdom, sobriety and patriotism! Only a few days ago we saw an article in a Democratic paper in this State which was intended to vindicate Andrew Johnson against the charge of inebriety Let us appeal from the Democratic party of 1868 to the Democratic party of 1865 to ascertain what they thought, of Johnson a character in this respect and in general, before he deceived the party which trusted him with the second office in the Republic We quote from the World's article

The drunken and beastly Caligula, the most profligate of all the Roman Emperors, raised his horse to the dignity of Consul—an office that, in former times had been filled by the greatest warriors and statesmen of the republic the Scipios the Cates, by Cicero, and by the mighty Julius himself The consulship was scarcely more disgraced by that scandalous transaction than is our Vice Presidency by the late election This office has been adorned in better days by the talents and accomplishments of Adams and Jefferson, Clinton and Geary, Calhoun and Van Buren and now to see it filled by this insolent, drunken brute, in comparison with whom even Caligula's horse was respectable!—for the poor animal did not abuse his own nature

And to think that only one frail human life stands between this insolent, clownish drunkard and the Presidency! May God bless and spare Abraham Lincoln! Should this Andrew Johnson become his successor, the decline and fall of the American Republic would mark as rapid in history as that of the Roman Empire under such atrocious masters as Nero and Caligula

As the presiding officer of the Senate, it is the duty of the vice President to preserve order, rebuke indecorum, and maintain the dignity of that body But with what face can Andrew Johnson ever presume to call a Senator to order? Were he a member of the Senate, the first duty laid upon that body by its sense of self respect would be to expel him for gross outrages upon its dignity What a front of brass and triple impudence must he have ever to appear again in his place, to say nothing of checking the slight indecorums into which Senators are sometimes betrayed by inadvertence in the warmth of debate

GRANT A "FAILURE"—Pending the Presidential election of 1864, the Democratic press habitually spoke of Abraham Lincoln as an "illiterate clown," an "obscure railsplitter,' etc, and some of them went even beyond this in the use of refined language, by calling him a "gorilla," and the "Illinois ape" In 1864 when Andrew Johnson was a candidate for the Vice Presidency, they were fond of calling him a "boorish tailor They are now beginning a similar course of proceeding in regard to Gen Grant The rebel organ of this place says that "he is the smallest material out of which a great man was ever attempted to be made. With a liberal education at the expense of the Government, he had achieved at the age of forty years a clerkship in a retail leather store in Galena, with salary of thirty dollars a month" There is one way of business he did not fail in For his ability in that line, he can give such good Democratic references as R E Lee, Joe Johnston, Pemberton, Braxton Bragg & Co That's what's the matter with the "organ" It would think a great deal more of Grant if, like McClellan, Buell and others, he had failed in his transactions with the Democratic worthies just mentioned Had Grant failed as signally as McClellan, he would be, in Democratic estimation quite as great a man But having triumphed over a host of Southern heroes, by carrying on war in a most unchivalrous and unconstitutional manner, he has shown that there is no real ability or genuine manliness about him Democratically speaking, he is therefore the greatest "failure" of the age

The addresses of the Democratic orators at Oro Fino Hall last night, were, in great part, an impeachment of their own party Judge Page told the audience that the war was "for a glorious purpose," but he did not explain why he and his party did not support it He also said that it was proposed to impeach Andrew Johnson because he had done—what? An act which he honestly thought was right" The same argument has often been heard in favor of the traitors who led the rebellion Democratic orators tell us that they are "Christian gentlemen" and only did what they thought was right Who, therefore, say they, has a right to judge them Mr Smith said, for the thousandth time, that the war might have been averted had the Republican party made concessions In other words, there would have been no trouble, and would be none now, if the freemen of the North would submit to Southern dictation Neither of the speakers said a word in condemnation of their rebellious friends of the South, by whose conduct the country was brought into its present difficulties Union men were called "traitors," Sheridan, Sickles, and others who fought gloriously on the side of the Union were denounced as "miserable wretches," there were good words for all except the patriotic and deserving, and condemnation for all except the really guilty This is about the substance of the speeches on the occasion

There is one feature of the truculent Beriah's sanguinary article on impeachment which is calculated to relieve the feelings of the Confederates who are howling against Congress as a "traitor one" body The "organ" says that impeachment is "no less treasonable and revolutionary than the acts of secession passed by the Southern States prior to the war" Is that all? Then it is easy to prove on "Democratic" principles that Congress is right For has not Beriah himself written columns on columns to show that there was nothing treasonable in the acts of secession and that those who passed them cannot be held to answer as traitors? And is not this the position which his party have uniformly and unanimously held? It is gratifying then to be informed from such a source that Congress has so clear a justification This way of putting things quashes Beriah's indictment against that body

The Herald incorporates into an editorial column of necessarily twaddle all the lies at Washington drawn from the New York Sunday Mercury a paper which is made up for circulation among the stews of that city Of course the Mercury is a Democratic, and takes sides with Johnson and Mrs Cobb It naturally abuses Congress and the Union party and these qualities and the general character of the paper strongly commend it to the favorable notice of Beriah To show his appreciation of that kind of literature he has leaded the Mercury par excellence and given it an editorial We would not it was not idle to add

CHALLENGE —We will place $1000 in the hands of any responsible party whenever any manufacturer or manufacturers of Billiard Tables in the world shall signify a willingness to test the merits of his or their tables with ours and to venture a like sum as the deciding cushion to be submitted to the examination of a committee of impartial and scientific men who shall have power to investigate their merits thoroughly by actual trial with balls dissection etc

This wager is not offered for the purpose of winning money but solely to afford convincing proof that the cast gut cushion is superior to all others and we shall prefer that the money staked should go to some charitable object

A NEW OREGON PRODUCT.—On Monday, the steamer Senator brought down twenty cases of linseed oil, the product of the Pioneer mill at Salem. This is the first of the Oregon product, and its arrival created considerable remark. In this connection, we quote the following from the Unionist concerning the mill, the manufacture of oil, and the raising flax crop, viz.: The Pioneer Oil Mill is now in full operation, having capacity to manufacture about two hundred gallons of oil in ten hours. The cost of the establishment is estimated at twenty thousand dollars and the machinery combines all recent improvements, including apparatus for breaking and tackling the flax straw. Of last year's crop of flax, the company have still on hand enough to keep the mill running until July or August. They have contracted with farmers for a large quantity, to be delivered next fall, and desire to contract for as much more as possible. They furnish seed to those desiring to cultivate, and give $1 50 per bushel delivered at the mill, or at any point on the river, where it can be shipped for Salem. For flax straw cut close to the ground and bound in bundles, the size of an ordinary sheaf of wheat, they give a fair price. It is estimated that the straw, properly saved and brought to market, will pay the expense of threshing and marketing the seed. There are four varieties of flax which Mr. E. Cartwright—one of the proprietors—informs us have been tested in our soil and climate, the White Cuzby, the Bombay, Calcutta, and the Common American. The White Cuzby has proved the best, being earlier and yielding much more, both of seed and straw, to the acre. The fiber is also as good or better than that of any other variety. It is understood that the proprietors of the mill are entirely satisfied with their investment, so far as the prospects for profit are concerned.

DR. C. W. COOL,
DENTIST.
THOSE WHO DESIRE FIRST CLASS DENTAL SERVICES might do well to give him a call. He is making a NEW AND IMPROVED VULCANITE PLATE. The nature of his improvement consists in fitting the entire concave surface with fine gold; it makes the plate twice as strong and one-third lighter than the common vulcanite plate. It also prevents the acids of the mouth from roughing the plate, and from turning it black, which is a common occurrence. One half of the common vulcanite plates turn black after being in use a short time, particularly where tobacco is used for smoking. His new style of plate admits of a very fine finish on the concave or palate surface. His office is the only place where such work can be had. The improvement is his own invention, for which he has received, December 3d 1867, a patent from the United States Patent Office. He has been making this style of work for the last two and a half years, and has specimens of the work which can be seen at his office. This work has given satisfaction in every case.

The Pain Killer Abroad.
The following correspondence will show something of the estimation in which Perry Davis' Pain Killer is held on the shores of the Mediterranean. It is not surprising that a medicine that receives such testimonials as this from abroad, should find well sustained and increasing appreciation at home.
U. S. CONSULATE, Tunis, Dec 27, 1866.
To the Proprietors of Davis' Pain Killer, Providence, R. I.—Gentlemen:—The enclosed has just been received from my friend Tulin, late Consul General of Norway and Sweden and of Prussia in this place. No comment is needed. Truly yours, AMOS PERRY.
CAIRO, December 16, 1866.
Dear Sir.—Accept thanks for this third supply of Davis' "Pain Killer." This medicine has often relieved me of serious indisposition, and I would not on any account consent to be without it both for myself and my family.
I have recommended it to my late colleagues and friends in Tunis and Genoa, and at my request one of the largest druggists in this city has sent an order to New York to meet the demand in this place.
Yours truly, H. A. TULIN,
Ex-Consul Gen'l of Sweden, Norway & Prussia in Tunis.
Hon. Amos Perry, Consul General, Tunis. fe26dawlm

"We recommend the CASH plan as the best mode of Insurance. Some will deny this offers a few years' experience of the different plans."—The Charter Oak Life Insurance Co. (A Note Company.)
EXPERIENCE has taught business men that CREDITS must be paid for.
IN CASH COMPANIES The first payment is the largest, every succeeding year from the date of a policy lessens the policy of the policy of the insured. Past records of the Mutual prove that in 15 years these payments cease but DIVIDENDS continue for life.
IN NOTE COMPANIES The first payment is the smallest—Interest on Notes allow Dividends and increases the future payments.
OBSERVE—Notes must be paid for by higher rates and increased insurance.
DIVIDENDS—The Mutual declares Dividends the first and every succeeding year from the date of a policy holders' insurance. N. B.—The public should ascertain from other Insurance Companies if Dividends are declared annually or in the start—or annually 5 YEARS AFTER the insurance.
RATES in The Mutual are Lower than in any other Company doing business on the Pacific Coast and are considerably lower than in any Note Company.

WIBERG & STROWBRIDGE have disposed of their entire retail stock of Boots & Shoes and will hereafter devote their whole attention to the WHOLESALE BOOT & SHOE BUSINESS. We have on hand 200 cases of Boots and Shoes which we offer very low, in order to make room for our spring stock direct from the East, which will arrive about the middle of March. Our arrangements for direct importation are now complete, one of our firm having located his residence near Boston, for the express purpose of buying and forwarding goods for our house in Portland. We will keep none but first class goods and we think we can do as well by dealers, as if they purchased their goods in San Francisco.

OF NEW YORK.
Incorporated 1842.
CASH ASSETS $23,000,000 00
ANNUAL INCOME OVER 5,000,000 00
CASH DIVIDENDS (Feb. 1, 1867) 2,124 000 75
THE MUTUAL DOES A CASH BUSINESS ONLY AND HAS NO NOTES!
What a Note Company says:
"We recommend the CASH plan as the best mode of Insurance. Some will deny this offers a few years' experience of the different plans."—The Charter Oak Life Insurance Co. (A Note Company.)
EXPERIENCE has taught business men that CREDITS must be paid for.
IN CASH COMPANIES The first payment is the largest, every succeeding year from the date of a policy lessens the policy of the policy of the insured. Past records of the Mutual prove that in 15 years these payments cease but DIVIDENDS continue for life.
IN NOTE COMPANIES The first payment is the smallest—Interest on Notes allow Dividends and increases the future payments.
OBSERVE—Notes must be paid for by higher rates and increased insurance.
DIVIDENDS—The Mutual declares Dividends the first and every succeeding year from the date of a policy holders' insurance. N. B.—The public should ascertain from other Insurance Companies if Dividends are declared annually or in the start—or annually 5 YEARS AFTER the insurance.
RATES in The Mutual are Lower than in any other Company doing business on the Pacific Coast and are considerably lower than in any Note Company.
EVERY ADVANTAGE is offered by The Mutual (excepting notes)—that other Insurance Companies can offer.
IS THE OLDEST AND LARGEST LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.
Medical Examiners:

PORTLAND, OREGON.

FROM T. M. GATCH, PRINCIPAL OF THE PORTLAND ACADEMY AND FEMALE SEMINARY.

"Having lately had an opportunity of becoming some what acquainted with the workings of this Institution, I unhesitatingly recommend it to all who wish to secure a practical business education in the shortest time and with the least expense The idea of going from Oregon to California to attend a Commercial School is simply absurd

It is my opinion that pupils instructed by Messrs. LAUDEN and DeFRANCE receive greater attention than those of any other Commercial College on the coast, and this I say without wishing to detract from the usefulness of schools I have visited in San Francisco."

For further particulars call at the College or address the Principal
